

Andrew Birozy

Andrew Birozy is a 30-year law enforcement veteran currently serving as a lieutenant in a police department in Southern California. Andrew holds a Master of Science degree in Law Enforcement Executive Leadership and a Bachelor of Arts degree in Leadership. Andrew is a California Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training Master Instructor and teaches a variety of law enforcement classes throughout the state. He's committed himself to being a life-long learner and teaching helps him further his passion for learning. Andrew has a vast amount of experience in curriculum design where has developed many law enforcement related courses both for police agencies and community colleges.

Andrew has a strong background in internal affairs. He has been tasked with investigating many sensitive cases, including officer-involved-shootings and peace officers involved in criminal activity. Andrew is frequently consulted with to provide guidance and expertise involving complex administrative investigations.

Andrew lives in California with his wife, Kimiko, and they have three children.